International Scientific Conference Invitation

Ladies and Gentlemen, Dear Colleagues,

Karol Dąbrowski (Maria Curie-Skłodowska University in Lublin), Tomasz Dorożyński (University of Lodz) and Piotr Marciniak (Institute of Law Studies Polish Academy of Science) cordially invite you to participate in the International Scientific Conference entitled:

How business environment institutions contributed to economic development?

Theoretical and empirical approach

The conference will take place on November 16th, 2023 on-line on Teams. Participation in the conference will be free of charge. We kindly ask you to register here: <https://forms.office.com/e/eez3dZySx8>. We will send you a link a day before the conference on your email address.

This year we will focus on chambers of commerce in Spain, Hungary, Lithuania, Ukraine and Poland. The selection of countries is not accidental. Most typical studies focus on countries such as Germany, France and Great Britain. However, the situation and operating conditions of business environment organizations in each country are actually different - sometimes far from these most frequently discussed examples.

Therefore, we asked researchers from the above-mentioned countries to briefly explain current position of chambers in their countries to better understand both the differences and challenges chambers face, as well as ideas of their possible evolution. We will held six 20-minute presentations followed by discussion panels.
